Horsewatch relaunched in Dorset

We are pleased to announce that Horsewatch is being re-launched in the county of Dorset, with PC 61 Jane Brittain back at the reins. This is great news for all horse owners in Dorset and we hope you will all enthusiastically support Jane in her work. At the moment we are unsure whether the new scheme is for the whole or the part of Dorset in which Jane works, which is the Wimbourne area, but as soon as we know we will share the information with you.

Upgrade your horse's security package!

If you are still unconvinced on the power of freezebranding or microchips please bear in mind the advice we have received from Wetherbys:

"Thank you for keeping us aware of horses which have been stolen in the area. Unfortunately, a photo of the (stolen) horse will not be of any use in preventing the issue of a new or duplicate passport. We would need details that can be matched to those stored on our database, e.g. microchip number or freezebrand."

So this means a stolen horse can be given a new identity simply because their old one cannot be proven. Bearing in mind how many adverts are on the internet for %Bay TB Gelding+ or %Piebald Cob Mare+ it seems silly not to upgrade from a photographed horse to a microchipped or freezebranded one!

Search High ... And Low!

There have been several incidents where horses have been reported stolen but were subsequently found not very far from their own stables/paddocks. Searches for missing animals have to be VERY thorough in the immediate area because experience is showing that horses, ponies and foals will gain access to areas, which you would not normally consider them entering.

One such story (with a happy ending) is Austin, a dappled grey pony, believed stolen at the same time as his trailer from Cheshire last month. What had actually happened was the trailer thieves had left the gates open and the horses were left to run free. Austin was found four days later up to his belly in muck and water in a cesspit in the garden of a derelict house very close to the field.

Nobody had heard him and as he was below ground level he was not easily spotted. Thankfully, the fire brigade managed to knock down the walls of the pit and get Austin out. He was shaken and cut, with a high temperature, but he is home, alive and on route to making a full recovery.

Stolen Horse Register

It is commendable that there are many community minded internet sites to view stolen horses. However, horse owners are reminded that the primary site for registering stolen horses is www.stolenhorseregister.com. Thank you.

The National Equine Database has updated their website and are sending all their members the following message which may be of interest to you:

Dear NED Member

New look NED to go live this week

Following the initial public launch of NED last November, we have been working hard to improve the usability of NED Online for you. The result is a more user friendly version which will go live this week. Key features of this new release are:

Date: 10 July 2009

- Brand new home page and fresh new look throughout the site
- Reporting facility for horses lost or stolen, developed in collaboration with Horsewatch
- Photo gallery of horses uploaded on to NED
- A new value for money 'points model' for chargeable services

The new points model replaces the introductory £1 offer and operates very much like a simple 'pay as you go' mobile phone package. You can purchase points at any time you like, the points are credited to your account and they can then be spent on any NED services - passport checks, associating with equines you own or any of NED's wide selection of data reports.

As an existing member you do not need to make any changes to take advantage of the new NED features. When your introductory membership finishes, your account will automatically switch onto the new points model leaving your existing Associations, Favourites and NEDLinks still in place. In addition, you will have 5 free NED points allocated to your account as a thank you from us. You will see your points total in the Welcome box, top left of your screen.

If you have any questions as to how NED points work, there is a short question and answer section accessible from the Welcome box as well. Click on the Info button. Thank you all once again for your support of NED which continues to go from strength to strength.

Best wishes,

THE NED TEAM

Farm Watch County Division (including Horse Watch) 6 July 09

If anyone has an email facility I would appreciate your address, especially those of you currently on fax. The fax system on this computer does not work very well and I believe you are missing some important information. I have been informing all Farm and Horsewatch members locally when quad bikes have been stolen. These type of thefts are picking up now and I urge all owners of quad bikes to pay particular attention to the security of these items and ensure you have make, model and serial numbers written down somewhere and a picture of it just in case you fall victim to a crime.

Stolen quad bikes

Farm in Blandford, Stoke Wake, 26/27 July a container broken into and a child's quad bike stolen. Shillingstone Blandford a van entered in an isolated location 1/2 July and another quad bike stolen from within.

Diesel stolen from horse boxes

6 reports of diesel stolen from horse boxes in Lower Common Lane, Three Legged Cross, Wimborne 29/30 June with 1 report of an attempt to break into a locked stable at the same yard but no entry actually gained.

Date: 10 July 2009

Other rural crime and thefts

- In addition, a farmhouse was broken into in Buckhorn Weston by smashing a glass panel in the window 20 June/4 July. Nothing was stolen.
- An outbuilding broken into on a farm in Winsham near Chard 5 July and gardening equipment stolen.
- Bedchester a compound on a farm entered stealing copper piping. Buildings are under construction on site 30 June.
- Bridport 6 bales of hay pushed into a river at North Mills 27/30 June.
- Concern was expressed in Melcombe Bingham, Dorchester on 5 July of 2 males, one 40, one 20 years who were questioned in a farmyard. They appeared indignant at being questioned and eventually asked for directions. They left in a Mercedes Sprinter van N69 1NDG. There is no trace of this number. The closest match is a Somerset vehicle with no reports so this vehicle may or may not be of interest to you. Incident 462 dated 5 July for any further information via 01202 222222.
- Concern also on a farm/camp site in Romford, Wimborne on 5 July, 2 males with a child, in a white Ford Transit R811 YCL wanting to buy chickens. This is a local vehicle to rural Wimborne. The vehicle had scrap in the rear. I urge caution if seen on your farm. Please monitor carefully and report. Incident 574 dated 5 July.
- Finally early hours of 3 July at a farm in Hampreston, Wimborne a suspicious male was disturbed on the driveway. All we have is that some kind of spotlight was on the top of the vehicle. The hay looks like it has been disturbed but nothing appears stolen.
